RUBBER PACT MAY SET PACE FOR INDUSTRY

Big Four, Union Agree On Wages Before Strike; Both Sides Pleased

AKRON, O., March 24 — The CIO-United Rubber Workers of America and the "big four" companies of the industry pointed the way today to uninterrupted production during 1947 with the eleventh-hour signing of a new wage agreement.

Approved in Cleveland just 22 hours before some 100,000 unionists were to have struck in 42 plants scattered over the nation, the contract granted an 11½ cent hourly wage boost.

The figure was a compromise between the original 10-cent offer made by companies and the union demand of 16 cents, which had been pared down from 26 cents.

Absenteeism Still High As Classes Resume In City And County

All of the 20 schools in Circleville and Pickaway county were operating Monday following the closing of 11 last week as a result of severe colds and influenza among students and teachers.

Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville schools, said the Circleville high and the city's four elementary schools, all closed last Wednesday as a consequence of absenteeism, reported that the five resumed classes Monday but absenteeism continued heavy. Supt. Fischer said a checkup disclosed 258 pupils absent from classes Monday.

George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools, said that while many students were absent from the 15 rural schools the number had not been tabulated Monday. The six rural schools forced to close last week were Pickaway township, Ashville-Harrison, Scioto township, Darbyville, Duvall and South Bloomfield.

Union Calls Off 329-Day-Old Strike Unexpectedly; To Continue Fight

MILWAUKEE, March 24—End of the bitter and stormy 329-day strike at the Allis Chalmers Manufacturing company in suburban West Allis resulted today in a back to work march to the plant by the CIO-United Automobile Workers union.

Officials of the striking local said it will take at least three weeks before all of the former strikers are absorbed in their old jobs at the huge farm equipment plant.

The strike was called off yesterday by an overwhelming 3 to 1 vote of 1,500 members of the local which mustered 11,000 strikers when the walk-out started last April 30. The strikers numbered about 4,700 when the vote was taken.

Company spokesmen termed the ending of the strike a virtual capitulation by the union but officials of the striking local 248 said the fight for the union shop, a 25 cents an hour wage increase and improvement of grievance machinery would be continued within the plant.

STRIKERS returning to their jobs will receive the current pay scale, 13½ cents an hour higher than the scale paid when the walkout started. The average hourly wage at the plant is $1.21 an hour.

Sudden ending of the strike came as a complete surprise.

Robert Buse, president of the local and Harold Christoffel, honorary president, called the strikers to a secret meeting in the Milwaukee auditorium at which Buse said:

"The company expected us to hold out till hell froze over. This is a surprise move, a tactic they did not expect."

"This is not a question of defeat. It is merely a change of tactics, designed to break the stalemate which the company has brought about."

Walter Geist, Allis-Chalmers president, addressed a letter to former striking employees last night in which he said:

"We intend to continue the fight with all our strength against those who try to undermine the relations between you and the company."

GERMAN YOUTH LEADERS FACE RUSSIAN CHARGE

BERLIN, March 24—Mass arrests of German youth leaders accused of serving as American secret agents were reported today to be taking place in the Soviet occupation zone of Germany and the Russian sector of Berlin.

Trustworthy sources said that the arrests were started in mid-March.

American counter-intelligence authorities confirmed German accounts of arrests but declined to discuss whether the persons in custody of the Russians actually had furnished information to American agencies.

The majority of those arrested so far are said to be functionaries of the Christian Democratic Union youth movement, among them a number of girls aged 18 to 20 who are members of Catholic youth groups.

Edwin Rossiter's Body Is Sighted By Trainman Along Creek Bank

Battered body of a man tentatively identified as Edwin Rossiter, 31, Route 2, Kingsport, was found Monday noon partly submerged in the waters of Hargus creek under a Norfolk and Western railway trestle at the northwest edge of Circleville.

The tentative identification was made from an Army discharge found in a pocket of the overalls on the hatless body. The discharge gave the birth date as June 2, 1915 at Hallsville.

Cause of death was not immediately determined and whether the dead man was an accident victim or was murdered was a matter of conjecture pending further examination and investigation.

Conductor Albright, passing on an N. and W. train spied the body and notified police, who called Dr. Lloyd Jones, Pickaway county coroner to the scene.

By order of Police Chief William F. McCrady the body remained at the scene awaiting the arrival from Columbus of a fingerprint expert from the state highway patrol.

Coroner Jones declined to say whether the man may have been murdered. He said, however, that the body appeared to have been in the water a number of hours, at least overnight.

Congressmen Told 100,000 Communists Are Active In U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 24 — An American Legion official told congress today that Communists in the United States "are cadre for ten foreign divisions already on American soil."

James F. Green, chairman of the Legion's Americanism commission, made the statement when he testified before the house un-American activities committee in support of legislation to ban the Communist party in the United States.

Green declared: "Can we, in conscience, disregard the danger at home? Can we ignore it when, by the smallest estimate, Communists in the United States—exclusive of sympathizers and fellow-travelers—number at least 100,000?"

"Here are cadre for ten foreign divisions already on American soil. To them this country is but a theater of operations, with the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics their mother land."

James F. O'Neil, vice chairman of the Legion's Americanism commission, told the committee that "the Communist party in the United States is a subversive international conspiracy masking as a domestic political party."

O'Neil endorsed President Truman's action in ordering a "loyalty check" of government employees, but said the action should be augmented by legislation outlawing the Communist party.

GREEN described the Communist party in America as "the willing instrument of a foreign power set upon the destruction of American democratic government by violent uprising." He added: "as such, it cannot be tolerated or endured."

John Thomas Taylor, national legislative director of the legion, laid the growth of Communism in the United States to "the nourishment of a communist triumph in Russia, financial support from that country and seemingly endless propaganda."

Russians Blamed For 'Very Serious Problem' In Southern Korea

WASHINGTON, March 24 — Acting Secretary of State Acheson told congress today that the United States must give financial aid to Korea "over the next three years" besides helping Greece and Turkey.

Acheson blamed Russian refusal to agree to the scope of a Korean trusteeship for the breakdown of attempts to achieve unification in Korea.

He told the senate foreign relations committee that the Soviet position in Korea was "of course untenable for us."

The acting secretary asserted that failure of unification efforts has resulted in a "very serious problem" in southern Korea.

Acheson, enlarging the global picture of democracy versus communism, said that in India "there is very great doubt whether democratic government can survive."

HE ADDED that in the Indo-China Burmese areas there is "a great yearning for democratic government."

The state department official said he could not now estimate how much money would be required for the part of Korea under U. S. control.

He said the problem was now under study by the state, war and navy departments and would be submitted to congress as soon as agreement is reached on the amount of money to be advanced.

DIPLOMATIC sources have placed the Korean aid figure at between 250 million and 500 million dollars.

Acheson made his disclosure in reply to a query by Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., committee chairman. Vandenberg questioned the failure of the United States to notify the United Nations "as a matter of comity" of its proposed 400 million dollar program to save Greece and Turkey from Communist domination.

Acheson told Vandenberg in reply that the United States is under no obligation to notify UN and could not do so until congress itself has authorized the Greco-Turkish assistance.

Secret Documents Bare Russia Expansion Plans

WASHINGTON, March 24 — Russia's threatening activities in the Balkans and around Turkey's borders were described to congress today as moves designed to force Soviet access to the Persian gulf and to control the vital Dardanelles straits.

Hitherto secret American documents given the house and senate committees considering the Greek-Turkey aid program, make clear that the ultimate possibility of war between Turkey and the Soviet Union is viewed as not out of the question.

The documents, reciting background developments leading to Mr. Truman's "stop Communism" plan, leave no doubt that the United States considers all Russian maneuvers in the area as aimed at control of the Near and Middle East.

Their "secret" labels removed by congressional demand, the papers directly accuse Russia of backing Communist elements in a "master plan" to overthrow the Greek government and waging a "war of nerves" to reinforce her claim to Turkish territory and the Dardanelles.

The study of rabbits is to be introduced into British schools. It is hoped it will prove more encouraging than the study of man.

There is also news that antelope in our forests have increased from 2,400 to 27,000 in 25 years — they've got more members now than the Elks.

During this time the antelopes have conducted no experiments with the atom, attended no conferences, written no treatise on world relations.

They don't even know how are things in Glocca Morra.

This is not to suggest that we all become antelopes but there must be something more peaceful about growing horns than blowing horns.

MARSHALL ASKS OCCUPATION CUT

Secretary Wants Big 4 To Take Prompt Action On Troop Reduction

MOSCOW, March 24 — Secretary of State George C. Marshall was revealed today to be pressing for prompt action on his proposal for reduction of allied occupation forces in Europe.

Authoritative American sources at the Moscow conference disclosed that Marshall has sent a formal statement to the secretariat of the big four foreign ministers council, requesting that the proposal be studied specially by the allied control council for Germany.

Marshall pressed for a report by the control council no later than July 1, 1947.

MEANWHILE, conference delegates to the big four engaged in informal parleys in an effort to reconcile conflicting views on the future of Germany. The big four principals resume formal council sessions tomorrow.

There is a growing belief in American delegation circles that Russia's reparations demands represent the key to success or failure of the conference. If the Soviets will agree to reduce their demands to what the western powers consider a reasonable level, it is believed there is a fair chance of getting agreement on Germany's economic and political future.

The present economic crisis in Russia, where the five-year plan reportedly is falling behind schedule in regard to machine tools and consumer goods, is said to be responsible for the Soviet insistence upon the half-billion annual figure.

Russians Blamed For 'Very Serious Problem' In Southern Korea

WASHINGTON, March 24 — Acting Secretary of State Acheson told congress today that the United States must give financial aid to Korea "over the next three years" besides helping Greece and Turkey.

Acheson blamed Russian refusal to agree to the scope of a Korean trusteeship for the breakdown of attempts to achieve unification in Korea.

He told the senate foreign relations committee that the Soviet position in Korea was "of course untenable for us."

The acting secretary asserted that failure of unification efforts has resulted in a "very serious problem" in southern Korea.

Acheson, enlarging the global picture of democracy versus communism, said that in India "there is very great doubt whether democratic government can survive."

He said the problem was now under study by the state, war and navy departments and would be submitted to congress as soon as agreement is reached on the amount of money to be advanced.

DIPLOMATIC sources have placed the Korean aid figure at between 250 million and 500 million dollars.

Acheson made his disclosure in reply to a query by Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., committee chairman. Vandenberg questioned the failure of the United States to notify the United Nations "as a matter of comity" of its proposed 400 million dollar program to save Greece and Turkey from Communist domination.

Acheson told Vandenberg in reply that the United States is under no obligation to notify UN and could not do so until congress itself has authorized the Greco-Turkish assistance.

are accused of using "stalling tactics" to delay the investigators, who are expected to report in mid-April.

By implication Russia also is accused of delaying the calling of an international meeting, in which the United States would participate, for revision of the Montreux convention. It is this agreement that gives Turkey sole control of the Dardanelles and which the "big three" at Potsdam agreed should be revised.

REFERRING to Russian claims to the Turkish Black sea provinces of Kars and Ardahan, regarded as a part of the Soviet "war of nerves" on Turkey, another document says:

"The Turkish government has not only rejected the Soviet claim but announced its intention, 'with or without the assistance of UNO', to protect its 'present territory and sovereignty even if this means war.'"

Congressmen Told 100,000 Communists Are Active In U. S.

of State Acheson brought a two-point reply. Acheson said:

1. The United States is "not under obligation" to notify the UN of its action.
2. Neither President Truman nor the state department is in position to do so until congress has approved the 400 million dollar "block communism" loan.

ACHESON opened senate hearings on the President's "block communism" undertaking by assuring senators that aid to Greece would be cut off if "anti-democratic practices" develop under the "rightist" Greek government.

He also said the United States will not send troops to Greece.

At the same time, Undersecretary Will Clayton told house members that at least 250 million dollars earmarked as military aid in the program for both countries is intended as a "clear grant."

Acheson stressed two points—that UN is not a "loan agency" and is not yet ready to assume military responsibilities.

He said that the international fund and world bank "neither at present or perhaps ever" could deal with the problem facing Greece.

ACHESON told the foreign relations committee headed by Vandenberg:

"Greece is not in a position to borrow...she is in a state of financial collapse."

As to UN's military forces, he added:

"There are no agreements — and we are nowhere near agreements on providing military forces for the United Nations. We have been working on that over a year and unfortunately there has been little progress."

VANDENBERG pointed out that UN would have to call a special meeting of the general assembly which would take at least 30 days, if that organization were to rescue Greece and Turkey. But then he asked:

"Are we not under obligation to notify UN of such action...?"

Acheson replied there was no provision in the charter requiring nations extending help to notify UN.

He explained the United States and others have extended such aid in other cases without UN being officially advised.

Acheson said he thought such notification would be "somewhat in the future" after the U. S. government "knows what it's going to do."

Vandenberg said he hoped the notification would be given after the process of congressional authorization is completed. Acheson did not rule out this possibility.

SCHOOL BOARD IS BLAMED FOR STUDENT STRIKE

CINCINNATI, O., March 24—A National Education Association official placed the blame for the North College Hill students' strike squarely on the suburban community's board of education today.

Dr. Richard B. Kennan, Washington, D. C., issued in Cincinnati a three-page statement in which he recommended that one of the board's majority members should change his vote to favor retention of Superintendent William A. Cook. He said:

"The majority members will need to present evidence of the most serious nature to justify this action that has resulted in the disruption of an entire school system, the critical division of a previous friendly community and the evident loss or confidence in their purposes and policies by an overwhelming majority of parents, pupils and teachers."

Leo G. Harrison, board president, termed Dr. Kennan's statement as that of an individual and said it had no legal aspects.

Harrison has threatened to close the schools today and has also said that he will ask the Hamilton county juvenile court to cite the parents of those students who are on strike today. Meanwhile, there appears to be no end in view of the strike which began last Wednesday when it was learned that Dr. Cook would not be rehired. Students said that they would continue to absent themselves from school until the board reversed its decision.

RENT CONTROLS ARE BLAMED FOR HOUSE SHORTAGE

WASHINGTON, March 24—Two spokesmen for the nation's property owners told congress today that rent controls are responsible for the housing shortage.

The spokesmen urged the house banking and currency committee, now studying extension of rent controls for another year, to consider either complete removal of ceilings or a 15 per cent overall rent rise.

The witnesses were Arthur W. Binns, president of the National Home and Property Foundation and Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice-president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Binns declared that "economic discrimination" is being practiced against landlords.

He presented figures showing that the average living costs of property owners have risen 64 per cent since January, 1941, while residential rents have gone up only four per cent.

Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff, Sheriff Charles Radcliff decided to turn the youths over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for prosecution.

FBI AGENT Daniel Johnson, Chillicothe, questioned the prisoners Saturday in the jail and it was then announced that they would be removed Monday to Columbus for arraignment.

Deputy Marshals Quetelet and Albanese said they would place the three youths in the Columbus city jail pending arraignment before the U. S. commissioner.

Under questioning Monday by Sheriff Radcliff, Deputies Carl Radcliff and Vern L. Pontious, and the deputy marshals, Maley and Neff admitted that on March 8 at 3 a. m. they and Rice burglarized the Scarrett Drug Store at Springfield, rolled a safe onto a small wagon, pulled the wagon to an alley, hammered the door open, took $1,200 in currency from the strong-box, and then abandoned it in the alley.

Police Chief Walter Sweet, Springfield, told Sheriff Radcliff that the report to police said the implicated Josephson in a "Communist passport racket". Witnesses alleged that Josephson had obtained a forged passport for Eisler, described to the committee as the number one Communist in the United States.

A former Communist editor Liston Oak, testified, however, that Josephson was a more important figure in American Communism today than Eisler. He described Josephson as a member of the communist police in this country. He also asserted that Josephson was of "policy making importance."

The committee's recommendation will be presented to the floor of the house for action. If the house concurs the evidence will be turned over to federal justice authorities for further action in federal court.

HIGHWAY PATROL SEEKS RECRUITS TO FILL RANKS

Colonel George Mingle, superintendent of the State Highway Patrol, announced today that examinations are now being conducted to select new men for the 23rd Patrol Training School, expected to open in May of this year. Schools will also be held during the Summer and Fall to bring the Patrol up to its authorized strength of 400 men.

Young men from this vicinity who are interested in the Highway Patrol as a career can obtain application blanks and complete information about the selection, training and duties of a Highway Patrolman from the officers stationed in Cincinnati.

Enrollment in the patrol school is limited to applicants who successfully pass rigid tests of intelligence, aptitude, and physical condition and whose character is above reproach. Applicants must be between the ages of 21 and 35, citizens of the United States, residents of Ohio for five years, at least 165 pounds in weight and 5 feet 8 inches in height, and have completed high school or have the equivalent in other schooling or training.

Colonel Mingle stated that veterans who have only partially completed high school will be accepted for examinations providing they have had sufficient military service and military schooling to make up this "equivalent." He also stated that veterans of World War II receive preference through Civil Service regulations which allow them 20 percent additional added to a passing grade in the civil service examination to be held later.

MAN CHARGED WITH THEFT WHILE ON HIS HONEYMOON

Theft of a comfort from a tourist cabin occupied by a honeymoon couple led to the arrest of Donald E. Hughes, Shelby, who pleaded guilty Sunday before Justice of the Peace Harold O. Eveland in Cincinnati and Hughes was fined $5 and costs.

Following his marriage in Kentucky, Hughes and his bride spent Saturday night at Bayer's tourist park on U. S. Route 23. The missing comfort was reported to Sheriff Charles Radcliff who in turn reported it to the state highway patrol. Hughes was taken into custody at Shelby and was escorted to Cincinnati.

NEFF TOLD Sheriff Radcliff that "about $100" of this one-third share in the drug store safe loot could be found in a chifferobe drawer in his home in Springfield.

After handcuffs had been affixed to the wrists of the three youths and deputy marshals were ready to start with them for Columbus Maley volunteered the statement that he and Chester Phillips, a taxi-cab driver at Springfield, in May 1946 obtained $20 in the holdup of the Hilltop Fruit Market there. Maley said he went to the scene in a cab driven by Phillips, that Phillips drove "around the block" while Maley, with an unloaded revolver, held up the operator of the fruit market. The cab then picked him up. He said he and Phillips split the $20.

Chief Sweet informed Sheriff Radcliff that records of the Rewey Rent-A-Car company at Springfield disclosed that Maley rented an automobile March 12, March 18, and March 20, and that on the first two rentals the mileage total 631. It was with the third rental car that the New Holland bank holdup attempt was made.

MAJOR POWERS TALK DISARMING

Five United Nations Make Plans For Reducing All But Atomic Arms

LAKE SUCCESS, March 24—Five major powers in the United Nations today will disclose initial plans for conventional disarmament exclusive of atomic weapons.

The first international meeting dealing with arms curtailment and reduction since the League of Nations conferences in Geneva begins at Lake Success this afternoon when the U. N. disarmament commission holds its inaugural session.

Eleven nations comprising the commission are the current members of the security council, thus bringing together around the conference table the following countries and delegates:

Australia, Paul Hasluck; Belgium, Ferdinand Van Langenhove; Brazil, Oswaldo Aranha; China, Quo Tai-Chi; Colombia, Alfonso Lopez; France, Alexander Parodi; Poland, Oscar Lange; Syria, Faris el Khouri; Soviet Russia, Andrei Gromyko; United Kingdom, Sir Alexander Cadogan; United States, Warren R. Austin (Herschel V. Johnson to deputize for Austin in the latter's continued absence in Washington.)

The disarmament group was set up through a resolution adopted by the U. N. general assembly and amplified subsequently by the security council. The latter decided after a long battle to restrict all consideration of atomic weapons and energy to the atomic energy commission.

Members of the group believe that the initial task will consist of reconciling conflicting viewpoints as to procedure, with wide divergences cropping up almost from the start.

HEETER CHANGES PLEA TO GUILTY IN TRUCK THEFT

With a panel of 25 potential jurors on hand along with several witnesses and the trial ready to begin, Glenn Heeter, 22, Route 2, Ashville, decided Monday morning to plead guilty in Pickaway county common pleas court to an indictment charging him with automobile theft.

Judge William D. Radcliff deferred imposition of sentence and remanded Heeter to the county jail. It was said that Heeter will make an attempt to enlist in the Army.

Heeter was charged with the theft of a pickup truck owned by the Ohio Fuel Gas company. The truck was stolen Jan. 14 from in front of the home of Frank Marion, 307 East Franklin street, gas company service man. Heeter was subsequently arrested at Chillicothe. The truck was recovered.

"RAISES will be paid not out of an inflated sales dollar," Buckingham declared, "but out of a continued high volume of sales."

"We believe the industry's all-time record production of some 85 million tires last year will be maintained and may be expanded this year."

Union President Buckmaster commented, "actually, I'm not entirely satisfied with the final settlement. I had hoped it would be better, but still it probably should be acceptable to most of our people."

IN ADDITION to the wage increase, which will cost the big four an estimated 50 million dollars annually, the contract provided for the re-opening after 120 days of the general wage scale question.

The big four plants, located in 20 states, reportedly produce 90 per cent of the nation's tires. First effect of a strike would have been felt by the automobile industry but it soon would have extended to many other fields.

WALLACE MAY BE ASKED TO GIVE 'OTHER SIDE'

WASHINGTON, March 24—Former vice president Henry Wallace may be called before the house foreign affairs committee to present "the other side" on the Greek-Turkish aid bill.

Buse and Christoffel are under fire in congress as alleged Communists. Christoffel, Buse and Joseph Dombek, vice-president of the local, will not join the returning workers. Buse and Dombek were fired by the company several months ago for alleged inflammatory remarks.

Christoffel was discharged last week for alleged Communist affiliations.

All three have appealed to the national labor relations board. The Allis-Chalmers management claimed that 6,500 union members had returned to their jobs prior to the vote to end the strike.

ACHESON TELLS CONGRESS U. S. MUST GIVE HELP

Congressmen Told 100,000 Communists Are Active In U. S.

of State Acheson brought a two-point reply, Acheson said:

1. The United States is "not under obligation" to notify the UN of its action.

2. Neither President Truman nor the state department is in position to do so until congress has approved the 400 million dollar "block communism" loan.

ACHESON opened senate hearings on the President's "block communism" undertaking by assuring senators that aid to Greece would be cut off if "anti-democratic practices" develop under the "rightist" Greek government.

He also said the United States will not send troops to Greece.

At the same time, Undersecretary Will Clayton told house members that at least 250 million dollars earmarked as military aid in the program for both countries is intended as a "clear grant".

Acheson stressed two points—that UN is not a "loan agency" and is not yet ready to assume military responsibilities.

He said that the international fund and world bank "neither at present or perhaps ever" could deal with the problem facing Greece.

ACHESON told the foreign relations committee headed by Vandenberg:

"Greece is not in a position to borrow... she is in a state of financial collapse."

As to UN's military forces, he added:

"There are no agreements — and we are nowhere near agreements on providing military forces for the United Nations. We have been working on that over a year and unfortunately there has been little progress."

VANDEBERG pointed out that UN would have to call a special meeting of the general assembly which would take at least 30 days, if that organization were to rescue Greece and Turkey. But then he asked:

"Are we not under obligation to notify UN of such action...?"

Acheson replied there was no provision in the charter requiring nations extending help to notify UN.

He explained the United States and others have extended such aid in other cases without UN being officially advised.

Acheson said he thought such notification would be "somewhat in the future" after the U. S. government "knows what it's going to do".

Vandenberg said he hoped the notification would be given after the process of congressional authorization is completed. Acheson did not rule out this possibility.

Eleven nations comprising the commission are the current members of the security council, thus bringing together around the conference table the following countries and delegates:

Australia, Paul Hasluck; Belgium, Ferdinand Van Langenhove; Brazil, Oswaldo Aranha; China, Quo Tai-Chi; Colombia, Alfonso Lopez; France, Alexander Parodi; Poland, Oscar Lange; Syria, Faris el Khouri; Soviet Russia, Andrei Gromyko; United Kingdom, Sir Alexander Cadogan; United States, Warren R. Austin (Herschel V. Johnson deputize for Austin in the latter's continued absence in Washington.)

The disarmament group was set up through a resolution adopted by the U. N. general assembly and amplified subsequently by the security council. The latter decided after a long battle to restrict all consideration of atomic weapons and energy to the atomic energy commission.

Members of the group believe that the initial task will consist of reconciling conflicting viewpoints as to procedure, with wide divergences cropping up almost from the start.

HEETER CHANGES PLEA TO GUILTY IN TRUCK THEFT

With a panel of 25 potential jurors on hand along with several witnesses and the trial ready to begin, Glenn Heeter, 22, Route 2, Ashville, decided Monday morning to plead guilty in Pickaway county common pleas court to an indictment charging him with automobile theft.

Judge William D. Radcliff deferred imposition of sentence and remanded Heeter to the county jail. It was said that Heeter will make an attempt to enlist in the Army.

Heeter was charged with the theft of a pickup truck owned by the Ohio Fuel Gas company. The truck was stolen Jan. 14 from in front of the home of Frank Marion, 307 East Franklin street, gas company service man. Heeter was subsequently arrested at Chillicothe. The truck was recovered.

"RAISES will be paid not out of an inflated sales dollar," Buckingham declared, "but out of a continued high volume of sales."

"We believe the industry's all-time record production of some 85 million tires last year will be maintained and may be expanded this year."

Union President Buckmaster commented, "actually, I'm not entirely satisfied with the final settlement. I had hoped it would be better, but still it probably should be acceptable to most of our people."

WALLACE MAY BE ASKED TO GIVE 'OTHER SIDE'

WASHINGTON, March 24—Former vice president Henry Wallace may be called before the house foreign affairs committee to present "the other side" on the Greek-Turkish aid bill.

Rep. Eaton (R) N. J., committee chairman, said today that "it has been suggested" that Wallace, an opponent of the President's "stop Communism" program, be asked to testify, and added that it was "under consideration."

Eaton declared that Wallace may be requested to appear in order to give the committee "the opposition views" on the question. All witnesses to date have supported the President's program. Eaton revealed also that Lincoln MacVeigh and Edwin Wilson, American ambassadors to Greece and Turkey respectively, will be heard in closed session tomorrow and Wednesday by the committee.

SCHOOL FUNDS OCCUPY TIME OF OHIO'S SOLONS

Daniels - Cramer Measure, Cincinnati Plan Get Special Study

COLUMBUS, O., March 24 — Schools and finances occupied the attention of Ohio's general assembly today.

In the senate the education committee scheduled a hearing tomorrow on the bill, sponsored by Cincinnati's Republican delegation, to give a $14,500,000-a-year pay raise directly to school teachers in lieu of the Daniels-Cramer bill, which already has been recommended for passage by the committee.

In the house the finance committee continued its painstaking, item-by-item study of Governor Herbert's record-breaking 532 million dollar budget, to determine just where 20 or 30 million dollars could be lopped from the total.

The senatorial body was believed unlikely to recommend the bill of Sens. Fred Reiners, Stanley McKie and Kyle Brooks, particularly since the committee chairman, Sen. Virgil Cramer (R-Toledo) is one of the Daniels-Cramer bill sponsors.

HOWEVER, the powerful, influential Cincinnati delegation, backed by Ohio business interests, is willing to carry its fight with the school lobby over to the house of representatives if the senate should sidetrack its bill and pass the $5 million dollar a year Daniels-Cramer measure.

Briefly, the Daniels-Cramer bill increases state aid to schools through the school foundation program from about 59 millions to 85 millions or more a year. The money would be given to local school districts to do with as they see fit, although it does establish a $2,000 minimum salary for teachers with a bachelor's degree.

The Cincinnati bill, on the other hand, leaves the permanent school law at 59 millions, but earmarks 14 1/2 millions a year directly for teacher increases on the following formula:

For teachers earning less than $2,000, a 30 per cent increase;

For teachers earning $2,001 to $3,000, a 15 per cent increase;

For teachers earning $3,001 to $4,000, a 10 per cent increase, and

For teachers earning more than $4,000, a five per cent increase.

The senate finance committee also concerned itself with school matters, as it considered Governor Herbert's proposal for a $6,000,000 "bonus" for school employees for the first half of this year.

Herbert recommended that the money be distributed on the basis of 40 per cent added to the regular May 31 quarterly distribution of school foundation funds.

The Ohio Education association seeks to change the formula to 20 per cent of the total of the first two distributions, and then to increase the percentage to 21 per cent because 20 per cent would not use up the entire amount. However, 21 per cent would boost the total slightly over Herbert's recommended six millions.

ASHVILLE

March meeting of the Ashville - Lockbourne Lutheran Brotherhood was held Wednesday evening in the Ashville church with President E. F. Martin in charge of the meeting. During the business meeting it was decided to drop out of the Franklin County dart ball league because of the number of trips necessary and because of eligibility rules and to play an independent schedule next winter. The Rev. H. D. Fudge led the devotionals and spoke about the Christian and Lutheran creeds. S. J. Bowers showed colored films and told of his trip to the West Coast last summer during which he visited such scenic spots as Yellowstone Park, Glacier National Park, the Canadian Rockies, and the Grand Canyon. E. F. Martin described his trip last fall to the New England states and spoke in particular of places of his historic interest in and around Boston. Lunch was served by E. F. Martin, S. J. Bowers, E. L. Runkle, and G. A. Hook.

Will W. Fischer continues to improve after his serious illness and is now able to be up long enough to take some of his meals at the table.

B. C. Arthur, former Ashville boy, is now operating the E. G. I. dry cleaning plant at Catlettsburg, Kentucky.

After absenteeism jumped from 11 percent to 20 percent Thursday, Ashville school officials decided to close the local schools until Monday in an effort to check illnesses due to the flu. The Duval and South Bloomfield schools will re-open Monday after being closed since Monday. Parents are asked to keep their children away from crowds and to see that those ill are kept as quiet as possible.

Soil Conservation Notes

By J. A. Muster

Now is the time to renew old or run-out meadows and pastures and the trash-mulch method of renewal is the one being adopted by more farmers each year, as the operations involved have proved their value. One of the chief advantages of the method is that disking and no plowing is done.

The disking keeps the organic matter in the top inches of the soil where it prevents erosion, helps absorption of water and helps to retain the water where it is needed. The disking must be thorough, so that the field looks like it had been plowed. Deep cutting is not desirable. After disking, lime should be applied according to the soil test, about 400 lbs. fertilizer should be used per acre and the field culitpacked. A good per-acre seeding is alfalfa 8 lbs., red clover 2 lbs., Ladino clover 1 lb. and 5 to 6 lbs. timothy. All operations are to be done on the contour.

After seeding the field should be culitpacked again and no grazing permitted until the grass is big and strong enough to pasture. Grazing after the first week in September seriously damages the pasture the following year. Other fall pasture should be provided for the livestock for use after early September. A good farm plan carries such provision.

A gain of almost 300 pounds of beef per acre was reported some years ago by 1000 cattlemen who pastured beef cattle and answered questionnaires from three midwestern experiment stations. More recent investigations verify the early reports.

The cattle were pastured without grain from May 1 to Nov. 1. Under either low or high price levels, net cash returns from the land are about as high when the land is used for good pasture as they are when corn or other field crops are grown. The building up of the soil results under the pasture management while soil depletion accompanies the grain production.

The backward spring to date has retarded the field work for soil conservationists as much as it has done so for the farmers. As soon as weather permits, followup work needed on farms planned with the Pickaway soil conservation district last year, will be done as rapidly as possible. Terrace grade lines were staked on two farms last week.

SCHOOL FUNDS OCCUPY TIME OF OHIO'S SOLONS

Daniels - Cramer Measure,
Cincinnati Plan Get
Special Study

COLUMBUS, O., March 24 — Schools and finances occupied the attention of Ohio's general assembly today.

In the senate the education committee scheduled a hearing tomorrow on the bill, sponsored by Cincinnati's Republican delegation, to give a $14,500,000-a-year pay raise directly to school teachers in lieu of the Daniels-Cramer bill, which already has been recommended for passage by the committee.

In the house the finance committee continued its painstaking, item-by-item study of Governor Herbert's record-breaking $32 million dollar budget, to determine just where 20 or 30 million dollars could be lopped from the total.

The senatorial body was believed unlikely to recommend the bill of Sens. Fred Reiners, Stanley McKie and Kyle Brooks, particularly since the committee chairman, Sen. Virgil Cramer (R-Toledo) is one of the Daniels-Cramer bill sponsors.

HOWEVER, the powerful, influential Cincinnati delegation, backed by Ohio business interests, is willing to carry its fight with the school lobby over to the house of representatives if the senate should sidetrack its bill and pass the $5 million dollar a year Daniels-Cramer measure.

Briefly, the Daniels-Cramer bill increases state aid to schools through the school foundation program from about $9 millions to $85 millions or more a year. The money would be given to local school districts to do with as they see fit, although it does establish a $2,000 minimum salary for teachers with a bachelor's degree.

The Cincinnati bill, on the other hand, leaves the permanent school law at $9 millions, but earmarks 14 1/2 millions a year directly for teacher increases on the following formula:

For teachers earning less than $2,000, a 30 per cent increase;

For teachers earning $2,001 to $3,000, a 15 per cent increase;

For teachers earning $3,001 to $4,000, a 10 per cent increase, and

For teachers earning more than $4,000, a five per cent increase.

The senate finance committee also concerned itself with school matters, as it considered Governor Herbert's proposal for a $6,000,000 "bonus" for school employees for the first half of this year.

Herbert recommended that the money be distributed on the basis of 40 per cent added to the regular May 31 quarterly distribution of school foundation funds.

The Ohio Education association seeks to change the formula to 20 per cent of the total of the first two distributions, and then to increase the percentage to 21 per cent because 20 per cent would not use up the entire amount. However, 21 per cent would boost the total slightly over Herbert's recommended six millions.

ASHVILLE

March meeting of the Ashville - Lockbourne Lutheran Brotherhood was held Wednesday evening in the Ashville church with President E. F. Martin in charge of the meeting.

During the business meeting it was decided to drop out of the Franklin County dart ball league because of the number of trips necessary and because of eligibility rules and to play an independent schedule next winter. The Rev. H. D. Fudge led the devotionals and spoke about the Christian and Lutheran creeds. S. J. Bowers showed colored films and told of his trip to the West Coast last summer during which he visited such scenic spots as Yellowstone Park, Glacier National Park, the Canadian Rockies, and the Grand Canyon. E. F. Martin described his trip last fall to the New England states and spoke in particular of places of historic interest in and around Boston. Lunch was served by E. F. Martin, S. J. Bowers, E. L. Runkle, and G. A. Hook.

Will W. Fischer continues to improve after his serious illness and is now able to be up long enough to take some of his meals at the table.

B. C. Arthur, former Ashville boy, is now operating the Ex-G.I. dry cleaning plant at Catlettsburg, Kentucky.

After absenteeism jumped from 11 percent to 20 percent Thursday, Ashville school officials decided to close the local schools until Monday in an effort to check illnesses due to the flu. The Duval and South Bloomfield schools will re-open Monday after being closed since Monday. Parents are asked to keep their children away from crowds and to see that those ill are kept as quiet as possible.

Soil Conservation Notes

By J. A. Muster

Now is the time to renew old or run-out meadows and pastures and the trash-mulch method of renewal is the one being adopted by more farmers each year, as the operations involved have proved their value. One of the chief advantages of the method is that discing and no plowing is done.

The discing keeps the organic matter in the top inches of the soil where it prevents erosion, helps absorption of water and helps to retain the water where it is needed. The discing must be thorough, so that the field looks like it had been plowed. Deep cutting is not desirable. After discing, lime should be applied according to the soil test, about 400 lbs. fertilizer should be used per acre and the field culpackaged. A good per-acre seeding is alfalfa 8 lbs., red clover 2 lbs., Ladino clover 1 lb. and 5 to 6 lbs. timothy. All operations are to be done on the contour.

After seeding the field should be culpackaged again and no grazing permitted until the grass is big and strong enough to pasture. Grazing after the first week in September seriously damages the pasture the following year. Other fall pasture should be provided for the livestock for use after early September. A good farm plan carries such provision.

A gain of almost 300 pounds of beef per acre was reported some years ago by 1000 cattlemen who pastured beef cattle and answered questionnaires from three midwestern experiment stations. More recent investigations verify the early reports. The cattle were pastured without grain from May 1 to Nov. 1. Under either low or high price levels, net cash returns from the land are about as high when the land is used for good pasture as they are when corn or other field crops are grown. The building up of the soil results under the pasture management while

MEDICAL EDUCATION

YET ANOTHER educational group in the country is feeling the pinch of higher operational costs, the need for increased teacher salaries. According to the testimony of 19 presidents of universities engaged in medical education, the medical schools are imperiled. Endowments are yielding less return; research, greatly expanded, is more costly; building needs, untouched during war years, emerge as insistent despite high prices. And the ever-present teacher salary scale, here as in all other schools, must be raised.

The citizen, struggling with his own efforts to make his budget stretch to a new thin over the ever widening gulf between income and outgo, will understand. It is a concrete appeal, this from the ramparts set up to guard the health of all citizens. Americans always have been ready to grant that only the best is good enough in the field of medicine. The rub is how are these newly-demanded funds to be raised? The question is one of paramount importance in all states.

DISAGREEMENT IN BERLIN

FOUR-POWER approval has so far been granted to only three out of 75 resolutions adopted by the city council of Berlin, says David Nichol, writing from that city. Most of these resolutions embody plans for the relief of suffering from cold and hunger and from other social results of war and occupation.

The Russians, having lost the election which determined the form of government for Berlin, are working to show the people the mistake they have made, says Nichol. The Americans, backed by the British, are insisting upon a democratic system. All this pulling and hauling has resulted in what amounts to a deadlock, which is being played up by German political leaders.

Allies who could unite in an effort strong enough to defeat the Germans should be able, by some means, to make common cause of governing them efficiently. It should be easier to work together in peace than in war. But is it?

LIMIT CONGRESS, TOO

CONGRESS HAS voted for a constitutional amendment limiting the President's length of service. If it really wished to help the nation, it should be logical to limit the service of congressmen, also. At least it might establish an age limit.

The United States has suffered long enough from mediocrities with a stranglehold on their districts, who steadily get reelected until they outlive their contemporaries and become chairmen of important committees. Were congressmen restricted to the liberal limit of 24 years' service, or four senatorial terms, a change would be enforced before they reached an age at which they became stationary mentally.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 24—Rabbi Benjamin Schultz of Yonkers has wired me asking authority to quote some recent slight report in this spot on the possibility of Christian dictatorship in America in event of depression—a report gleaned from travel and talk among many American leaders. He wanted to use my report on his column in the Jewish Post. The thought then occurred to me that I had been guilty of inadequate reporting, that the simple reference was easily subject to sectarian misinterpretation. So I wrote Rabbi Schultz a complete report on what I had found, which is substantially this:

Only two important politico-religious forces are vying with each other to lead and control world thought—the God respecting people on one side and the atheists of communism on the other. The preponderant majority of people in all America, but particularly in the United States and Canada, are Christian in customs, principles and in their essential ideology. If some future depression hinders the operation of their political democracy, and they are forced to seek refuge in strongarm government, it is wholly unlikely that they would renounce their basic principles and accept atheism or communism. As the large majority of the people are Christian they are unquestionably likely to work out some Christian method to meet their needs for government. In all reasonable expectations then, any future totalitarianism in this nation is apt to be Christian in essence.

I found this feeling among many men, although I must confess not among all our leaders. Some expected communism and atheism to supplant and inspire any future political change. My own opinion runs strongly against that possibility. For specific instance, the unions have created political action groups which have failed to dispel communist influence in their midst. Yet their leaders adhere to the Christian philosophy and some are active members of churches. I do not believe the majority of the union membership wants communism or atheism, and among them the communist and atheist movement has reached its high water mark.

But the Christian civilization under which we live is nonsectarian. Its basic principle is freedom of worship and freedom not to worship. It does not embrace only churchgoers of the various sects, but a great many people who do not go to any church, yet believe in God. Naturally also it embraces similarly the great number of Godfearing Jews who have attained greater success under this civilization (and in our own nation) than in any other civilization in all the past history of the world. Never in Greek, Roman, medieval or any modern civilization has the Jew attained the position he now holds here. This cannot be denied. We have a civilization which is distinctly not antisemitic.

Evidence about Russia is somewhat mixed, but communism is distinctly antisemitic. Marx may have been a Jew, but he was certainly not Jewish. His basic principle was that to destroy capitalism, it would first be necessary to destroy human belief in God, that all religion was the opiate which kept the people down, the Jewish religion as well as all others, Mohammedan, Buddhist, etc. He preached worship of the state, which is the basic communist and Nazi philosophy, and worship of self. Russia is silent, for political reasons, no doubt, but I notice the refugees who packed Palestine came considerably from Russian.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

"DUCK" NOT A "HOLD-UP"

"THAT WAS a nice hold-up play you made," said one partner to the other by way of complimenting him on his part in defeating a No Trump game contract. "Thank you for the compliment," he replied, "but the play was a duck, not a hold-up." He went on to explain that a hold-up consists of delaying your play of a top card in order to block an opponent's run of his suit, whereas "duck" describes delay in use of a top card for the purpose of enabling you to run your own side's suit later. Both offense and defense make use of either play.

South's last bid was a bit bold in view of the weak sound of North's second bid, a practical sign-off in clubs. But South decided that North's ability to bid the suit at the two level on the first round showed enough strength for a No Trump game try, since the diamonds appeared to be stopped.

That contract would have been made if the defense had done

what many mediocre players would do. West led his diamond 9 to the K, and South put his J on the 10 return. Now, if West should score his A and return another diamond to the Q, South could make his contract. He could play the heart A and Q, lead dummy's spade 9 and let East win it. Having no more diamonds, East would have to give South the lead with any return. Then, by taking a finesse of the spade J, South could total three tricks in that suit, four in hearts, one in diamonds and two in clubs to make his contract plus an extra.

But West did not use his A on the second diamond. He played low. When East got the lead later in spades, he had a diamond left and led it. The A therefore took the third diamond and was followed by two more to set the contract. West's clinging to his A instead of using it on the second diamond was a duck, not a hold-up.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

IT OCCURRED TO Sherry, however, that she hadn't even told her mother about Lex Morell being at the farm. And so she said, quite casually, "There was someone else at Steve's, too. He's working there, but he's really a friend of Steve's." She went on to explain just a little about Lex, enough and no more than was necessary. It wasn't that she didn't want to confide in her mother. But the channels of communication between them had been blocked for so long that the effort of establishing contact seemed scarcely worth while. Besides, there was nothing to confide—or nothing that would have seemed important to Leda.

"How nice for you, dear," Leda said when Sherry had finished. "Having someone younger there must have made it more fun. I should think you'd find it dull, just being with Steve and Aunt Pen." "It isn't though," Sherry denied quickly. "It's never dull. But Lex is nice. I enjoyed meeting him."

"Does he intend working for Steve long?" Leda asked. "When does he plan to buy this place of his own you spoke of?"

Sherry said, "I don't know. It depends on so many things." Leda Kent leaned back in her chair, her gaze thoughtful on her daughter's face. Sherry hoped she wasn't going to press her for further details about Lex. She knew the reluctance she felt to discuss him with her mother was unreasonable. Yet the reluctance was there. Sherry couldn't justify it, she could only admit it in her own heart. Her liking for Lex was too new, too deep, to be forced into the clumsy medium of words.

Leda spoke then, her tone oddly hesitant, and Sherry realized her mother hadn't been thinking about Lex at all. "I—have some news for you—something I think will surprise you—"

"What sort of news?" Sherry asked. "About Val?" her mother said. "She told me this morning she and Wade Carrington are going to be married."

Sherry could only sit there on the arm of her mother's chair, staring at her blankly while the awful, the incredible statement penetrated her unwilling awareness. It was as though something shattered in her mind, some conception of her sister's basic integrity to which she had clung stubbornly despite the sometimes jarring evidence of Val's conduct. Now Sherry's faith in her sister faltered. Her eyes, staring down into her mother's, were wide with shock, her young mouth unsteady.

"Wade Carrington?" Dully she repeated his name. "Val's—going to marry him?"

Leda nodded. She laid her hand on Sherry's and found it icy cold. "Don't look so shocked."

"I am shocked. It's so dreadful. Val—and Wade Carrington—?" She asked then, her direct gaze probing her mother's. "Aren't you shocked?"

Leda's dark eyes sustained the probing. "No—no, I'm not, Sherry. Oh, he's a good deal older than she, of course. And it's too bad he's been married so many times. But Val's twenty-two—certainly old enough to know what she's doing."

"You can say that," Sherry asked, her voice low, sick, "after talking her out of marrying Rick—when they loved each other so?"

"But that was altogether different—can't you see? Rick was ready to leave for war. What did he have to offer Val in the way of security? With him—as things worked out—she would have had a few short weeks of marriage, nothing more. She would have been a widow now, perhaps with a child to provide for—"

"And you think this marriage will be better?" There was hot young scorn in Sherry's voice. "You know the sort of man Wade is—three times divorced, one of Susan Pyle's numerous ex-lovers!"

"Sherry!" her mother reproved. "The Carringtons are a good family; Wade has money and a great deal of charm. He can do so much for Val and he will; he's very generous. Besides, they must care for each other, or they wouldn't be planning to marry."

Sherry got to her feet slowly. She stood there, her arms locked tightly, as though she felt cold. Presently she said, "But—Val can't love him, not really, not as she loved Rick—or as she might be capable of loving someone else later on—"

Her voice died unhearingly.

Leda sighed. "You're so young, dear—too young to realize there are many kinds of love. This may be different from what she felt for Rick, yet no less real. I feel Val will be happier, truly better off, married. She's been so lost since Rick's death, so aimless, not caring what she does—"

Sherry broke in, "But can't you see, Mother, this is just a part of that recklessness, that crazy way she pursues pleasure and excitement. She'll be marrying Wade in order to forget Rick—and that's no basis for marriage."

Leda passed one hand across her forehead in a weary gesture. "Perhaps not—but Val's mind is made up. And she's so hard lately, so unapproachable."

Sherry thought: That's because she's still bitter over the way you interfered in her affairs before. She doesn't mean to let you do it again. Thinking that, she suddenly realized the inconsistency of her own attitude. Aloud Sherry said, "I don't like it—I don't believe it can work out. But, as you say, Val's old enough to know what she's doing. And I wouldn't interfere, or try to influence her—"

Leda caught the implication behind her words. "Sherry that's not kind," she accused. "I know just what you mean. But in persuading Val not to marry Rick, I only tried to do what was best for her. Surely it's a mother's responsibility to advise her children, to help them avoid making mistakes that may wreck their happiness. I know from my own experience how difficult a hasty marriage can be, how great the possibilities of heartbreak for a woman. I had to share that knowledge with Val, I felt it was my duty to warn her."

Sherry's lips twisted in a very smile, remembering the other side of her mother's marriage, her father's side, so briefly but lucidly touched upon by Steve. But it was all too far in the past to bring up now, even if she had felt like arguing with her mother, or hurting her. And she didn't feel like it. She only felt tired, Sherry realized suddenly. Tired and depleted and unsure of everything, even herself.

She laid her hand on her mother's shoulder in a conciliatory gesture. "I'm sorry. I didn't mean to hurt you. Just hope things work out for Val. She's been so unhappy. If life gives her another run-around—"

She left it at that, stooped to kiss her mother's cheek lightly. "Now I'm going to bed—I'm tired."

Sherry lay in the darkness, her eyes wide open. Tears ached in her throat, unshed tears for Val, for Rick as she remembered him, for the brief, bright glory that had been their love. All over the world girls like Val had been left with only their memories of the men they had loved. And life must go on, adjustments must be made, everyone had the right to a second chance at happiness. But—had all those countless others changed like Val, grown harder, coarser somehow? Val, as she used to be, could not have been drawn to such a man as Wade Carrington, wouldn't have considered marrying him. The very thought of it made Sherry feel a little sick.

She wanted terribly to be asleep before Val came home, but she wasn't. Val clicked on the dressing-table lamp and stood revealed in their soft glow, a lovely sophisticated in a gray silk jersey dinner dress. Greed in its classic simplicity. Diamonds winked and glittered in her ears beneath the high pale coil of her hair. She glanced inquiringly toward Sherry's bed and Sherry disdained to pretend sleep. After all, they'd have to talk sometime.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast holds augury of some delaying, thwarting, or disturbing influence, blocking tangible rewards of labors already firmly developed and soundly established. It is probable that certain hidden factors may cause such debacle or postponement. However, there is sign of the intervention of some influence of a social, feminine or artistic person, attracted by the worth or superiority of foundations temporarily arrested. Perseverance, determination and compromise should win.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which static, congested or delayed conditions, with disheartening undercurrents, blocking the way of progress well under way, may eventually spring into renewed activity, with definite progress and rich rewards for work well done, persistent and worthy effort. This might arise from social, feminine or artistic sources, with reassuring elements of far-reaching significance. A staunch heart may turn the tide into enduring and gratifying channels of well-earned recognition. "Let patience have its perfect work."

A child born on this day should finally overcome hidden causes of defeat and frustration, winning rich returns from those attracted by patience, fortitude and perseverance.

Life-Saving Sulfonamides Can Cause Allergic Reactions

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT'S an old and very wonderful story that the sulfonamide drugs have saved the lives of thousands of people suffering from a wide variety of infections. What is newer is the fact that, helpful as they are, these drugs may also have every now and then unpleasant reactions. For this reason they should always be used with care and under the direction of the physician.

Skin rashes of various kinds seem particularly to result from the use of sulfonamide drugs. Together with the rash there may be fever, neuralgia, headache and chills.

Within Few Hours Sometimes the skin rash appears within a few hours after the patient starts to take the drug. In other instances from one to two weeks may pass before any skin disturbance appears.

According to Dr. Osogode S. Philpott of Denver, the skin rash may be in the form of a redness of the skin much like that which occurs in scarlet fever. In other cases there may be swellings varying in size from a pea to a dollar, appearing on the arms and legs, face and neck.

Sometimes there is a rash like hives. In other cases, there may be swelling of the lips together with a great deal of itching. In still other instances there may be a rash like eczema, particularly affecting the arms and legs. Now and then there may be a pimple-like eruption with the formation of some blisters.

When Applied Locally Not only may these various types of rash develop when the sulfonamide drugs are taken by mouth, but also when they are applied locally to a skin ulcer, a burn or other skin disorders.

In treating these skin conditions due to the sulfonamide drugs, of course, the first thing to do is to stop the use of the drug. Some physicians have found that the giving of large doses of vitamin C may be helpful. The patient should also take plenty of fluids in order to help ward off any blockage of the flow of urine, due to collection of crystals of the sulfonamide drug in the kidneys. Cool compresses and soothing lotions may be applied to the affected parts of the skin, if necessary to relieve the symptoms.

If the physician is in doubt as to whether or not a skin rash is due to one of the sulfonamide drugs the simplest test which he makes is to stop the use of the drug. If there is a prompt improvement when the drug is stopped it almost definitely proves that the rash is due to the sulfonamide preparation.

The fact that these reactions occur, of course, does not mean that such drugs should be avoided but it does mean that they should be carefully employed.

Democrats in Senate | Republicans Needed
Chuckle at GOP Slips | Over Sessions Mixup

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Senate Democrats, now in the minority, are chuckling at the troubles of their Republican colleagues and wielding the "needle" whenever possible to point up their mistakes.

The GOP scheduling of Senate sessions was a case in point. First the Republican leaders announced that the reorganization act ideas would be closely adhered to by having Senate sessions only on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, with committee meetings the other days.

The things began to pile up on the new leaders. They decided to have night sessions Monday and Wednesday. Many senators showed signs of not liking that too much.

When the Greek-Turkish aid issue came to congressional attention, the program really hit a log jam. The GOP leaders went into another huddle, came up with a recommendation for meetings six days a week, and night sessions as necessary. All along, the Democrats on the sidelines have been saying, "When are you going to make up your minds?"

To cap everything, the Republicans recessed the Senate over the first weekend under their new speedup program without calling a Saturday session.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S popular reception in Mexico has caused some Latin and South American diplomats to welcome any plans the chief executive may have to visit other countries "south of the border."

Diplomatic circles second the acclaim of Mexicans who put their friendship on a personal basis in shouting "Viva Arrita."

They feel that his personal charm, simplicity and self-effacement

did more to further the "Good Neighbor" policy than all the solemn pronouncements of State department officials.

Mr. Truman's trip to Mexico was made, more or less, on the spur of the moment and it isn't known whether he contemplates any more sojourns to Latin or South American Republics.

But there is a feeling in Washington diplomatic quarters that he could climb into the "Sacred Cow" and fly southward to any one of the countries and be just as well received as he was in Mexico.

LOOK FOR A "TOUGH" BILL to come out of the House labor committee.

Indications point to the approval of a much more restrictive measure than the one now being considered by the Senate labor committee.

The legislation will go much further than any other labor bill considered in Congress since the advent of the New Deal. It is expected to include most of the provisions of the Case bill, which President Truman vetoed last year, plus many others.

The big question mark is whether the House committee will ban the closed union shop and industry-wide bargaining. The Senate committee is not expected to go that far.

SENATOR JOSEPH R. MCCARTHY (R) of Wisconsin is demonstrating in the tradition-bound Senate some of the originality he used as a Marine flyer against the Japanese in the Pacific.

Freshmen senators rarely get the chance to introduce important bills jointly with their seniors in the upper chamber—and then only by invitation. McCarthy upset that.

The "boy senator"—he is the youngest in the chamber—heard the veteran Senator Robert A. Taft (R) of Ohio discuss rent controls in a closed-door session of Senate Republicans.

Back in his office, McCarthy thought over Taft's ideas and decided he liked them. So he reached for his phone and proposed to Taft—one of the three men who run the Senate—that the two of them introduce a rent bill.

To observers, it was much as if a high school freshman proposed a joint program of action with the president of the senior class. McCarthy got away with it. The Taft-McCarthy bill started on its way through the legislative machinery.

MEDICAL EDUCATION

YET ANOTHER educational group in the country is feeling the pinch of higher operational costs, the need for increased teacher salaries. According to the testimony of 19 presidents of universities engaged in medical education, the medical schools are imperiled. Endowments are yielding less return; research, greatly expanded, is more costly; building needs, untouched during war years, emerge as insistent despite high prices. And the ever-present teacher salary scale, here as in all other schools, must be raised.

The citizen, struggling with his own efforts to make his budget stretch to a new thin over the ever widening gulf between income and outgo, will understand. It is a concrete appeal, this from the ramparts set up to guard the health of all citizens. Americans always have been ready to grant that only the best is good enough in the field of medicine. The rub is how are these newly-demanded funds to be raised? The question is one of paramount importance in all states.

DISAGREEMENT IN BERLIN

FOUR-POWER approval has so far been granted to only three out of 75 resolutions adopted by the city council of Berlin, says David Nichol, writing from that city. Most of these resolutions embody plans for the relief of suffering from cold and hunger and from other social results of war and occupation.

The Russians, having lost the election which determined the form of government for Berlin, are working to show the people the mistake they have made, says Nichol. The Americans, backed by the British, are insisting upon a democratic system. All this pulling and hauling has resulted in what amounts to a deadlock, which is being played up by German political leaders.

Allies who could unite in an effort strong enough to defeat the Germans should be able, by some means, to make common cause of governing them efficiently. It should be easier to work together in peace than in war. But is it?

LIMIT CONGRESS, TOO

CONGRESS HAS voted for a constitutional amendment limiting the President's length of service. If it really wished to help the nation, it should be logical to limit the service of congressmen, also. At least it might establish an age limit.

The United States has suffered long enough from mediocrities with a stranglehold on their districts, who steadily get reelected until they outlive their contemporaries and become chairmen of important committees. Were congressmen restricted to the liberal limit of 24 years' service, or four senatorial terms, a change would be enforced before they reached an age at which they became stationary mentally.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 24—Rabbi Benjamin Schultz of Yonkers has wired me asking authority to quote some recent slight report in this spot on the possibility of Christian dictatorship in America in event of depression—a report gleaned from travel and talk among many American leaders. He wanted to use my report on his column in the Jewish Post. The thought then occurred to me that I had been guilty of inadequate reporting, that the simple reference was easily subject to sectarian misinterpretation. So I wrote Rabbi Schultz a complete report on what I had found, which is substantially this:

Only two important politico-religious forces are vying with each other to lead and control world thought—the God respecting people on one side and the atheists of communism on the other. The preponderant majority of people in all America, but particularly in the United States and Canada, are Christian in customs, principles and in their essential ideology. If some future depression hinders the operation of their political democracy, and they are forced to seek refuge in strongarm government, it is wholly unlikely that they would renounce their basic principles and accept atheism or communism. As the large majority of the people are Christian they are unquestionably likely to work out some Christian method to meet their needs for government. In all reasonable expectations then, any future totalitarianism in this nation is apt to be Christian in essence.

I found this feeling among many men, although I must confess not among all our leaders. Some expected communism and atheism to supplant and inspire any future political change. My own opinion runs strongly against that possibility. For specific instance, the unions have created political action groups which have failed to dispel communist influence in their midst. Yet their leaders adhere to the Christian philosophy and some are active members of churches. I do not believe the majority of the union membership wants communism or atheism, and among them the communist and atheist movement has reached its high water mark.

But the Christian civilization under which we live is nonsectarian. Its basic principle is freedom of worship and freedom not to worship. It does not embrace only churchgoers of the various sects, but a great many people who do not go to any church, yet believe in God. Naturally also it embraces similarly the great number of Godfearing Jews who have attained greater success under this civilization (and in our own nation) than in any other civilization in all the past history of the world. Never in Greek, Roman, medieval or any modern civilization has the Jew attained the position he now holds here. This cannot be denied. We have a civilization which is distinctly not antisemitic.

Evidence about Russia is somewhat mixed, but communism is distinctly antisemitic. Marx may have been a Jew, but he was certainly not Jewish. His basic principle was that to destroy capitalism, it would first be necessary to destroy human belief in God, that all religion was the opiate which kept the people down, the Jewish religion as well as all others, Mohammedan, Buddhist, etc. He preached worship of the state, which is the basic communist and Nazi philosophy, and worship of self. Russia is silent, for political reasons, no doubt, but I notice the refugees who packed Palestine came considerably from Russian (Continued on Page Six)

"The Authority on Authorities"

"DUCK" NOT A "HOLD-UP"

"THAT WAS a nice hold-up play you made," said one partner to the other by way of complimenting him on his part in defeating a No Trump game contract. "Thank you for the compliment," he replied, "but the play was a duck, not a hold-up." He went on to explain that a hold-up consists of delaying your play of a top card in order to block an opponent's run of his suit, whereas "duck" describes delay in use of a top card for the purpose of enabling you to run your own side's suit later. Both offense and defense make use of either play.

What many mediocre players would do. West led his diamond 8 to the K and South put his J on the 10 return. Now, if West should score his A and return another diamond to the Q, South could make his contract. He could play the heart A and Q, lead dummy's spade 9 and let East win it. Having no more diamonds, East would have to give South the lead with any return. Then, by taking a finesse of the spade J, South could total three tricks in that suit, four in hearts, one in diamonds and two in clubs to make his contract plus an extra.

But West did not use his A on the second diamond. He played low. When East got the lead later in spades, he had a diamond left and led it. The A therefore took the third diamond and was followed by two more to set the contract. West's clinging to his A instead of using it on the second diamond was a duck, not a hold-up.

What is the soundest defense against East's 3-Spades on this deal?

That contract would have been made if the defense had done

THE NEWS that old Abd-el-Krim was about to be released from exile on an island, recalls what a scrapper he was. Krim could take a bunch of guys on camels and armed with spears and make the opposition think they'd picked on Montgomery and his bully boys of the Eighth Army.

Old Abd-el never let the sands of the desert grow cold under his feet. He moved so fast his war camels seemed jet-propelled.

Krimmy would pounce on a Spanish troop in Morocco, sock 'em and vanish so quickly the Spaniards thought they had been kayoed by a mirage.

Life-Saving Sulfonamides Can Cause Allergic Reactions

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT'S an old and very wonderful story that the sulfonamide drugs have saved the lives of thousands of people suffering from a wide variety of infections. What is newer is the fact that, helpful as they are, these drugs may also have every now and then unpleasant reactions. For this reason they should always be used with care and under the direction of the physician.

Skin rashes of various kinds seem particularly to result from the use of sulfonamide drugs. Together with the rash there may be fever, neuralgia, headache and chills.

Within Few Hours
Sometimes the skin rash appears within a few hours after the patient starts to take the drug. In other instances from one to two weeks may pass before any skin disturbance appears.

According to Dr. Osgoode S. Philpott of Denver, the skin rash may be in the form of a redness of the skin much like that which occurs in scarlet fever. In other cases there may be swellings varying in size from a pea to a dollar, appearing on the arms and legs, face and neck.

Sometimes there is a rash like hives. In other cases, there may be swelling of the lips together with a great deal of itching. In still other instances there may be a rash like eczema, particularly affecting the arms and legs. Now and then there may be a pimple-like eruption with the formation of some blisters.

When Applied Locally
Not only may these various types of rash develop when the sulfonamide drugs are taken by mouth, but also when they are applied locally to a skin ulcer, a burn or other skin disorders.

In treating these skin conditions due to the sulfonamide drugs, of course, the first thing to do is to stop the use of the drug. Some physicians have found that the giving of large doses of vitamin C may be helpful. The patient should also take plenty of fluids in order to help ward off any blockage of the flow of urine, due to collection of crystals of the sulfonamide drug in the kidneys. Cool compresses and soothing lotions may be applied to the affected parts of the skin, if necessary to relieve the symptoms.

If the physician is in doubt as to whether or not a skin rash is due to one of the sulfonamide drugs the simplest test which he makes is to stop the use of the drug. If there is a prompt improvement when the drug is stopped it almost definitely proves that the rash is due to the sulfonamide preparation.

The fact that these reactions occur, of course, does not mean that such drugs should be avoided but it does mean that they should be carefully employed.

Democrats in Senate
Chuckle at GOP Slips

Republicans Needed
Over Sessions Mixup

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Senate Democrats, now in the minority, are chuckling at the troubles of their Republican colleagues and wielding the "needle" whenever possible to point up their mistakes.

The GOP scheduling of Senate sessions was a case in point. First the Republican leaders announced that the reorganization act ideas would be closely adhered to by having Senate sessions only on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, with committee meetings the other days.

The things began to pile up on the new leaders. They decided to have night sessions Monday and Wednesday. Many senators showed signs of not liking that too much.

When the Greek-Turkish aid issue came to congressional attention, the program really hit a log jam. The GOP leaders went into another huddle, came up with a recommendation for meetings six days a week, and night sessions as necessary. All along, the Democrats on the sidelines have been saying, "When are you going to make up your minds?"

To cap everything, the Republicans recessed the Senate over the first weekend under their new speedup program without calling a Saturday session.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S popular reception in Mexico has caused some Latin and South American diplomats to welcome any plans the chief executive may have to visit other countries "south of the border."

Diplomatic circles second the acclaim of Mexicans who put their friendship on a personal basis in shouting "Viva Arrita."

They feel that his personal charm, simplicity and self-effacement

did more to further the "Good Neighbor" policy than all the solemn pronouncements of State department officials.

Mr. Truman's trip to Mexico was made, more or less, on the spur of the moment and it isn't known whether he contemplates any more sojourns to Latin or South American Republics.

But there is a feeling in Washington diplomatic quarters that he could climb into the "Sacred Cow" and fly southward to any one of the countries and be just as well received as he was in Mexico.

LOOK FOR A "TOUGH" BILL to come out of the House labor committee.

Indications point to the approval of a much more restrictive measure than the one now being considered by the Senate labor committee.

The legislation will go much further than any other labor bill considered in Congress since the advent of the New Deal. It is expected to include most of the provisions of the Case bill, which President Truman vetoed last year, plus many others.

The big question mark is whether the House committee will ban the closed union shop and industry-wide bargaining. The Senate committee is not expected to do that far.

SENATOR JOSEPH R. MCCARTHY (R) of Wisconsin is demonstrating in the tradition-bound Senate some of the originality he used as a Marine flyer against the Japanese in the Pacific.

Freshmen senators rarely get the chance to introduce important bills jointly with their seniors in the upper chamber—and then only by invitation. McCarthy upset that.

The "boy senator"—he is the youngest in the chamber—heard the veteran Senator Robert A. Taft (R) of Ohio discuss rent controls in a closed-door session of Senate Republicans.

Back in his office, McCarthy thought over Taft's ideas and decided he liked them. So he reached for his phone and proposed to Taft—one of the three men who run the Senate—that the two of them introduce a rent bill.

To observers, it was much as if a high school freshman proposed a joint program of action with the president of the senior class. McCarthy got away with it. The Taft-McCarthy bill started on its way through the legislative machinery.

In Memoriam

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of our Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Myers. No one knows how much we miss you. No one knows the bitter pain. We have suffered since we lost you. Life has never been the same. In our hearts your memory lingers. Sweetly, tenderly, fondly and true. There is not a day dear ones, that we do not think of you. We did not know the pain you had. Or hear your final sigh. We only know you passed away without a last goodbye. Gone dear ones, gone forever. How we miss your smiling face. But you left us to remember. No one on earth can take your place. A happy home we once enjoyed. How sweet the memory still. But death has left a loneliness. The world can never fill. Sadly missed by Granddaughters, Elizabeth Briggs and Margaret Bost.

M'PHAIL STILL DODGER ROOTER

Yank Boss Denies Old Trouble Caused Him To Bring Defamation Charge

SARASOTA, FLA., March 24 —Declaring himself to be still "at heart a Dodger rooter" Larry MacPhail denied knowledge today of reports that animosities aroused during his days as Brooklyn boss were at the bottom of his current rhubarb with three officials of the club.

Before entering a local hotel suite where Commissioner Happy Chandler will preside over a closed hearing, at which MacPhail will press charges of defamation against Branch Rickey, Leo Durocher and road secretary Harold Parrott, the Yankees' president said:

"I am amazed that anyone should circulate insinuations that I am working off an old grudge by demanding that Rickey and his associates be forced to prove slanderous statements they apparently have made in the newspapers concerning me. Go as far as you like in labelling such insinuations as untrue.

"In fact, the people of Brooklyn were very good to me during my years there and I still maintain the friendliest of feelings for them. I like to see their team succeed and you might even say that, so far as the national league is concerned, I really am a Dodger rooter at heart."

AFTER CHALLENGING anybody to show proof that he ever had criticized the Rickey regime which succeeded him at Ebbets field, MacPhail then demanded information as to the person or persons at whom his non-existent grudge could have been aimed.

The hearing, which was scheduled to start at two o'clock this afternoon, may last for several days, judging from the number of witnesses waiting to be heard. Also it is understood that after listening to the testimony, Chandler will return to his home in Versailles, Kentucky, and meditate for a week or two before making his decision known.

MILLER MAY BE BACK IN REDS LINEUP SOON

TAMPA, Fla., March 24—The Cincinnati Reds entertained the New York Yankees at Tampa today, but news in the Redleg camp centered around reports that shortstop Eddie Miller might change a former decision to retire from baseball.

Miller was said to have asked President Warren Giles for permission to rejoin the club.

The Reds lost to the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 6, yesterday as rookie hurler Kent Peterson and Eddie Evers gave up ten hits to the American League champs.

COACHES NAMED

COLUMBUS, O., March 24 —Ray Eliot of Illinois will coach the northern forces and Ohio State's Wesley Fesler will direct the southern representatives in this year's high school all-star game at Canton Aug. 15. The sponsoring Ohio High School Football Coaches association made those assignments Saturday at a meeting in conjunction with the state basketball tournament finals in Columbus.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

controlled zones. Some accounts of a few years back suggest there were many Jews in the makeup of the top Russia committees, but I have seen more current reports, indicating only that a high placed woman in Russia is responsible for the tolerance of se-metism.

Yet it stands to reason that any anticapitalist movement, springing from atheism, must be antisemitic, must wish to destroy the position which so many Jews have reached in power and prominence of capitalism. If capitalism ever fails, the Jewish leaders will suffer in banking and commerce as great a loss as the Nazis inflicted in Germany, or greater.

The Kremlin changes policies, but never purposes. It has even espoused some Christian sects temporarily to effect easier its basic Marxist design. But it is bound to be just as anti-Jewish in longrange purposes as it is anti-Christian.

These points which I found expressed among our people should be cleared up for my friend Rabbi Schultz, whose column I have not yet seen.

Opinions expressed by the writer in the column are the views of the author and not necessarily those of the Circleville Herald.

FELLER FLASHES FORM AS TRIBE SLUGS OUT WIN

PASADENA, Cal., March 24—Baseball officialdom can break out the record books for the coming season. Bob Feller is at it again.

Cleveland prince of hurlers showed all his natural stuff as the Indians merrily blasted the Chicago White Sox, 11-3, yesterday at Los Angeles for the Tribe's second in a row over the Pale Hose.

Feller put on a real display of his pitching talent, giving up but six hits, walking three and striking out seven in seven innings on the mound.

Still more pleasing to Manager Lou Boudreau was the return to batting form of slugging Pat Seerey, Dale Mitchell and Kenny Keltner.

Seerey, the Tribe's burly left-fielder, smashed two terrific homers and a double while Mitchell and Keltner both slashed three singles off the hurling of Red Ruffing and Al Smith.

Words of Wisdom

Hard workers are usually honest; industry lifts them above temptation.—Bovee.

Hints on Etiquette

Godparents for a baby usually are chosen from among the parents' most intimate friends. Relatives can be godparents also, but usually are not asked to act in this capacity as the idea is to add to the child's group of adult friends in case he should lose his parents.

Today's Horoscope

You are naturally industrious and self-sufficient if this is your birthday anniversary. For those you love you will exert all your energies toward making them happy. Yours is a very affectionate nature, intuitive, somewhat psychic, and never enthusiastic. The day's influences are doubtful for settlements, buying and location matters. Exercise care. A somewhat trying year is prophesied for you. Safeguard your health, guard against accidents and make no erratic changes. Some benefits will come your way in this period. The child who is born on this date will be industrious, independent, self-reliant and very quick-tempered; likely to retard progress through some erratic actions, also prone to accidents.

est Story Ever Told" began Sunday.

Johnny Ryan, Sammy Kaye's tenor on his "Sunday Serenade," is a big hit at the Capitol Theater in New York singing the popular "Anniversary Song."

Louise Erickson, star of "A Date With Judy," has no steady boy friend, having little time for "dates," as her radio work and studies at Occidental College occupy all of her time.

A service man in the studio audience gets an unexpected treat before each "Sparkle Time" show when Meredith Wilson uses his sponsor's product to mix an ice cream soda for the lucky guest.

Don Briggs, star of the "Perry Mason" show, was producer and manager of the Glenn Miller band unit during the war after the famous bandleader disappeared.

Ralph Locke, the famous "Papa David" of "Life Can Be Beautiful" serial, is an enthusiastic amateur sailor. One weekend, he can be seen racing his trim sloop on Long Island Sound.

The ballet music from Schubert's "Rosamunde" and Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" will be conducted by Alfred Wallenstein during the "Symphony for Youth" broadcast of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra Saturday.

The story of the Nazarene's judgment by the Roman governor and the sentence of death will be told in "The Crucifixion," second Easter trilogy drama, on "The Greatest Story Ever Told" Sunday, March 30.

Bill Slater ace sportscaster who will announce the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway classic next Decoration Day, reports that he'll bring the phenomenal Wilbur Shaw—three time winner of the world's fastest race—to the network microphones to give coast-to-coast listeners the behind-the-scenes information about the daredevil drivers.

Phil Leslie, who assists Don Quinn in writing the Fibber McGee and Molly show, did a script for "The Great Gildersleeve" recently and the reaction was so good from listeners that he has been asked to submit others for future use on the Harold Peary broadcast.

Sammy Kaye, appearing at New York's Capitol Theater, got off to a great start on opening day and is expected to break house records during his run there as he did in the houses he played on his recent southern tour. Kaye, who broadcasts his "Sunday Serenade" from wherever he is fulfilling personal appearance engagements, lured 14,550 people into the Capitol Theater in Washington, D. C., one day last week!

Amanda Man Killed When Plane Crashes On Dwight Pontious Farm

HOLLIS SMITH, GARAGE OWNER, DIES IN CRASH

Plane Becomes Entangled In Power Lines, Plunges
To Ground

Hollis C. Smith, 31, Stoutsville garage owner, was killed at 2:15 p. m. Sunday when the Taylorcraft single-engine airplane he was flying alone struck two high-tension power lines and crashed in a field on the Dwight Pontious farm two miles south of Amanda in Fairfield county. Mr. Smith lives on Route 1, Amanda, and for about four years had operated a garage at Stoutsville.

The plane had been rented from Floyd Wolford, operator of an airport at Amanda, and Wolford told state highway patrolmen that Mr. Smith took off from the air field about 20 minutes before the crash.

Although there were apparently no eye witnesses to the crash, Smith is believed to have been flying low, and probably did not see the power lines.

FIRST to reach the scene after the crash were an unidentified farmer, and several boys who had been fishing, and they summoned patrolmen. The plane did not catch fire. After hitting the wires the plane plunged to the ground, burying the propeller, and then rolled over. The power lines were about 50 feet above-ground.

The tragedy occurred 10 miles southwest of Lancaster and about 14 miles northeast of Circleville. Mr. Smith, who had been a pilot for about two years, received his training at the Amanda airport.

Dr. C. A. Borrow, Fairfield county coroner, returned a verdict of accidental death. He said death was caused by multiple injuries. The body was removed to the Van Cleve funeral home at Amanda.

MR. SMITH is survived by his widow, Mrs. Estyl Smith; his mother, Mrs. Florence J. Smith, Route 1, Amanda; a sister, Mrs. Clement W. Brown, Lancaster; and two brothers, Bernard Smith, Circleville; and Rodger Smith, Stoutsville.

Funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Van Cleve funeral home at Amanda. The Rev. Carl Butterbaugh will officiate and burial will be in Amanda township cemetery.

Friends may call after 10 a. m. Tuesday at the funeral home.

overseas soldier, with gross neglect of duty. Declaring they were married May 4, 1945 in Circleville, Mrs. Garner claims her husband has failed to provide properly. She says he was discharged from the Army in December, 1946, and re-enlisted in January, 1947.

What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling

Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what indigestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach" and the ever-changing blood need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

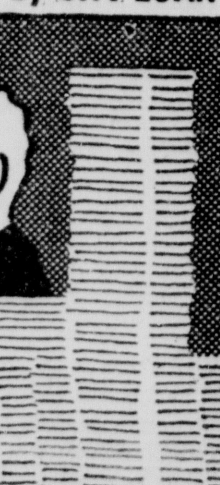

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get bulky with gas, bloated and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.
